

ATLAS stated at the MB on 1st April that the DPM certification, and in general anything related to data management) is for ATLAS the first priority (the updated info. is that today the DPM certification is well advanced).

Still ATLAS is definitely interested in a priority (or share) system that can be published in the information system (the VOviews). This system does not need to be dynamic (as the priorities will not be changed frequently) and needs only few roles, production and analysis for a start.

Such system is needed also because the pilot jobs are used for production but not yet for the analysis jobs submitted with Ganga, and the two activities have to be prioritized. Moreover for the analysis user it is important to know how many jobs are running in a site in the analysis share available to her/him. Thus the publication in the information system is needed.
