Ilya Volvovski graduated from Moscow Institute of Oil and Gas and has Master Degree in Applied Mathematics.

Ilya has significant experience working for startup companies including Cleversafe which he joined 8 years ago. Ilya is one of the main Cleversafe system architects . He is responsible for overall software architecture and is heavily involved in various phases of implementation including defining Cleversafe storage protocol, SliceStor software layer and implementation of highly optimized backend storage. His main current interest in performance optimization and adapting Cleversafe solution to emerging technologies such as SMR. Ilya is the author of over 25 patents related to distributed storage.

During his career Ilya also worked for several major corporations including Lucent and Swift.