Maria ILIADI

Her name is Maria Iliadi and she is from Greece. She is currently studying a Bachelor's Degree in Management Science and Technology at Athens University of Economics and Business.

This summer she has been working in the Software Section of the Beams Department (BE-BI-SW).

Her project focuses on providing graphical documentation tools for complex software systems for an existing framework based on XML, DOT technology. The work involves analysing existing tools that are considered to not cover all requirements and propose in collaboration with others, solutions for which a prototype implementation should be made.

After her internship at CERN, she will start a Master in Computer Science in Greece and she would like to apply for the technical student programme, in order to work and/or do her thesis at CERN.