

Kalle Vuorinen

Kalle Vuorinen is from Finland and he is soon to be a bachelor of Information Technology (IT) from Oulu University of Applied Sciences. Vuorinen specialized in medical engineering and his plans are pursuing a master's degree in one of the following fields: robotics, microelectronics, IT or medical technology.

Vuorinen has already a couple of years of experience within the IT industry and he has been working as a software designer for the last 1.5 years bringing the newest possible technology to its use in his work. His responsibilities have been developing and designing a new web application that will replace the old desktop version of a huge HR-management tool that has been used in all of the major hospitals in Finland. This application has been used to manage salaries, shifts, absences, calculations about work welfare and data collection.
