

Development of MPPC

Friday, 10 March 2006 09:00 (18 minutes)

MPPC is the new type photon sensor of semiconductor, which is under development with Hamamatu Photonics company. It consists of hundreds of small pixels in a sensor. Each pixel acts as a digital device to a photon. The MPPC is supposed to be used plastic scintillator calorimeter with Tungsten absorber. The development situation is reported.

Primary author: Prof. TAKESHITA, Tohru (Shinshu Univ.)

Presenter: Prof. TAKESHITA, Tohru (Shinshu Univ.)

Session Classification: Calorimetry and Muons

Track Classification: Calorimetry and Muons