

International Workshop on Cosmic-Ray Muography

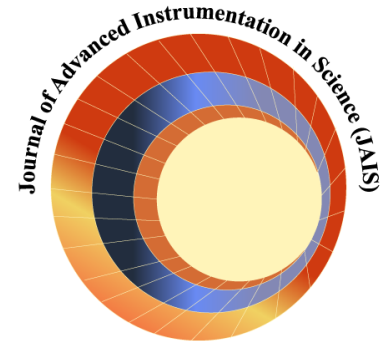

- Closing

Ghent University, Belgium
November 24-26, 2016

You are not done yet ...

- The proceedings of this workshop will be published in a special issue of the new peer-reviewed Journal of Advanced Instrumentation in Science (JAIS)
- All speakers and poster presenters are invited to submit a paper; guidelines and links on the workshop page:
<https://indico.cern.ch/event/1033631/page/22895-proceedings>
- Submission was opened few weeks ago; some papers were already submitted
- Deadline set to Dec. 15, 2021

We are not done yet either ...

What can you still expect from us for this workshop

- Payment receipts will be provided via email
- Photos from the workshop will be collected in a private archive and we'll send the link to all participants
- Moderated (no spam ...) muography community mailing list (will send around address) for muography related
 - Event announcements
 - Job advertisements
 - Special news or publications
 - ...

- ✓ 142 participants (physically present and online), from essentially all over the world
- ✓ 37 oral contributions and 18 posters
- ✓ 2.5 days of plenary sessions, including 45min of poster session
- ✓ Topics: Collaboration reports, instrumentation, simulation tools and studies, data analysis and image reconstruction, applications, new ideas, science communication and outreach

Impressions & Feedback

- 2.5 days program could easily be extended to 3-4 days, to allow more time for discussion
- Happy to finally meet the “entire” muography community
- Can we do this again in the future ?

Yes, we can ...

What's next ?

- ❑ Setting up a “version 0.1” of an International Advisory Committee for this workshop
 - Members will evolve over time
 - Aim to have representatives of all relevant geographical regions
 - Sole purpose is to ensure this workshop is organized on a regular basis

- ❑ We like to hear from you, i.e. send input to muography2021-info@cern.ch
 - What do you expect from a workshop like this ?
 - How often should it be organized (yearly, every two years ...) ?
 - Are you interested in organizing the next edition ?

Stay safe and see you all soon again !

