Question from LOC this morning

2021-10-13

Two more questions you might be able to help with - would you expect all speakers to be present in person or would you allow remote participants to present a talk? In this case, we might wish to ask them to pre-record this talk so it can be played on the day, followed by live questions. This is what we have done for various other events to avoid any connectivity issues on the day.

Also, should we open abstract submission through indico and invite contributions for posters and/or talks - or will these be invited contributions through the programme committee only? We assume that posters can only be contributed by those who attend the in-person event.
