

Contribution ID: 712

Type: Talk (preferred)

Graph Neural Networks for studying processes involving top quarks at colliders

Graph Neural Networks (GNNs) are increasingly being deployed when analysing data from particle physics experiments. We will present preliminary studies involving the application of GNNs to the problem of identifying processes involving top quarks in a collider environment.

Primary author: Mr NOMMENSEN, Thomas (The University of Sydney)

Co-authors: Mr LITTLE, Anthony (University of Sydney (AU)); VARVELL, Kevin (University of Sydney (AU))

Presenter: Mr NOMMENSEN, Thomas (The University of Sydney)

Session Classification: AIP: Nuclear and Particle Physics

Track Classification: AIP Congress: AIP: Nuclear and Particle Physics