

Contribution ID: 737

Type: Talk (preferred)

Metasurfaces for High Numerical Aperture Optical Signal Processing

Tuesday, 13 December 2022 15:00 (15 minutes)

Metasurfaces constructed of subwavelength periodic arrays of metal particles have been shown to possess asymmetric optical transfer function with a relatively high numerical aperture of  $\sim 0.5$  enabling phase imaging of diverse transparent objects.

Primary author: PRISCILLA, Niken

Co-authors: Prof. ROBERTS, Ann (The University of Melbourne); Dr WESEMANN, Lukas (The University of Melbourne); Dr DAVIS, Timothy J. (The University of Melbourne); Dr LEE, Wendy C. S. (The University of Melbourne)

Presenter: PRISCILLA, Niken

Session Classification: Focus Session

Track Classification: Focused Sessions: Metaphotonics and Metasurfaces