

My name is Hanna Olvhammar, and I am from Sweden. I am currently in my master's where I study particle physics, statistics and computational methods. After my master's I plan on pursuing a PhD where I can study particle or nuclear physics using advanced computational methods.