

Emily Howling Autobiography

Emily recently graduated with a masters in physics from Royal Holloway, University of London. She has previously worked in the diagnostics group at Diamond Light Source, the UK's national synchrotron, and in the tritium science group at JET, a nuclear fusion reactor. In October she will start a DPhil in Particle Physics at Oxford.

Outside physics, Emily enjoys playing in brass bands, watching the muppets and writing songs, often with a physics theme.