

Welcome to SLAC for US ATLAS Computing Facility F2F Meeting

11/30 to 12/02

Land Acknowledgement (URL)

An aerial photograph of a forest. The trees are mostly green, but there are several large, bright yellow trees scattered throughout, indicating autumn. The forest is dense and covers a large area.

“ We recognize that Stanford sits on the ancestral land of the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe. This land was and continues to be of great importance to the Ohlone people. Consistent with our values of community and inclusion, we have a responsibility to acknowledge, honor and make visible the university’s relationship to Native peoples.

The screenshot shows a web browser window titled "Join 'SLAC-VISITOR'". The SLAC logo (National Accelerator Laboratory) is in the top left. The main heading is "Welcome to the SLAC Visitor Network". Below it, a paragraph states: "The SLAC Visitor network is open to all SLAC visitors. It provides three months access to the Internet per device, but no privileged access to SLAC internal content, servers or mission-critical applications." A bold note follows: "Note: In accordance with US Federal Government directives Huawei and ZTE devices are not allowed on SLAC Visitor Network." There are two main content boxes. The first box contains the text: "Employees, contractors, and interns, if you are joining the Visitor network to perform work for SLAC, log in with your SLAC credentials" and a button labeled "EMPLOYEE LOGIN" with a right-pointing arrow and a small icon of two people. The second box contains the text: "If you are a new visitor or your access has expired, Register for Visitor Access".
