

Travel

We are delighted to welcome you here at CERN for the final conference of Crowd4SDG, taking place from 14 to 17 March 2023. It is our pleasure to host you and cater for your needs during the event. However, as we are a public institution, we do need you to follow certain rules and limitations imposed by the Organization.

How to get to CERN

There are several options for travelling to CERN.

If travelling from the airport, you can use public transport and take the 23/28/57 bus from Geneva Airport, and change at the stop Blandonnet. There, you get on the 18 tram to the final stop, Meyrin, CERN.

If travelling from Geneva, you can take the 18 tram directly from Gare Cornavin until you reach the last stop, Meyrin, CERN.

If travelling by car, please provide your car's license plate number on the registration form. You will then be allowed to drive onto the CERN site with your car. You can also park your car freely in the public car park behind the Globe, however spaces are limited. If you are bringing a car, please make sure you include the license plate in your registration form.
