WiFi network

Visitors

Your main priorities are network connection and printing.

Network connection for your laptop

Please connect your device to the "CERN-Visitors" Wi-Fi network.

You should be redirected to the "CERN Visitor Wi-Fi" registration portal. If not automatically redirected (as this is device dependant), open a web browser and you will see the registration portal.

Via this portal, without any registration, you will have access to a limited number of publicly available CERN websites ("Public Links"). To get a full internet access, agree with the CERN computing rules and register for Internet access by providing you email and a mobile phone number to which an access code will be sent by SMS. Once registered, you will be able to access remote web sites (http and https) and some other services (e-mail, VPN, SSH).

Note that this "CERN-Visitor" service is linked with the Wi-Fi Service Enhancement project, and may not be available in all buildings. More details can be found here (https://cern.ch/wifi-wise#Visitors).

If you have eduroam account provided by your home institute, you can use this network to gain connectivity. To get a full internet access, choose eduroam network, agree with the CERN computing rules and follow displayed instructions.

In some places, CERN-Visitors SSID is not yet available. In such areas (if you don't have eduroam account provided by your home institute), you can register your laptop and connect to the CERN network on a temporary basis.

Follow instructions on: https://information-technology.web.cern.ch/help/visitors

Use "eduroam" network (provided by your home institution) or "CERN-Visitors" network.

If you have a CERN computing account, register your devices here.

Code of conduct

We follow the CERN code of conduct:

▷ Abstain from and actively discourage all forms of harassment as well as verbal, non-verbal, written, or physical abuse.

▷ Sexual language and imagery, sexist, racist, or otherwise exclusionary jokes are not appropriate.

▷ Everyone is welcome, regardless of gender, sexual orientation, gender identity, culture, physical ability, ethnicity, appearance, nationality, age, education, or religious background.

▷ Questions are welcome, and should be asked and answered respectfully. We want all participants to be able to express their opinions freely.

We ask that all workshop participants follow these principles in order to have an enjoyable and productive workshop! Please reach out to any member of the steering committee if you experience problems or have any concerns.
