Conference tracks

The scientific program for CHEP 2024 will address the computing, networking, and software needs of the world's leading data-intensive science experiments that analyze hundreds of petabytes of data using worldwide computing resources. The conference focuses on high-energy and nuclear physics, but it welcomes contributions from all data-intensive sciences. This year's conference is located in Kraków, Poland.

The CHEP 2024 organizers are committed to fostering a supportive and diverse environment with opportunities for everyone. We strive towards having full participation from the whole community and encourage anyone to attend, even those outside of this field of interest. The attendance of students at CHEP 2024 is strongly encouraged. Selection of talks and posters will be made based on submitted abstracts. The program is organized into nine tracks:

- Data and Metadata Organization, Management and Access
- Online and real-time computing
- Offline Computing
- Distributed Computing
- Simulation and analysis tools
- Collaborative software and maintainability
- Computing Infrastructure
- Collaboration, Reinterpretation, Outreach and Education
- Analysis facilities and interactive computing

More details on topics covered by tracks available on conference page.

The call for abstracts has been closed on Friday, May 17th. Exceptional contributions may be selected for promotion to a plenary talk by the Program Committee. All accepted talks and posters will be allocated space in the published proceedings of CHEP 2024. The proceedings will be published in an open access journal after papers have been peer reviewed under the supervision of the Program Committee.

Transport

Thanks to its location, Kraków is perfectly connected with major cities in Poland, Europe, and worldwide. Kraków's John Paul II International Airport of Balice is situated conveniently on the outskirts of the city, just 15 km (about ten miles) from its center. It is also possible to fly to Warsaw and take a fast train to Kraków.

Krakow has also direct railway connections with other Poland's largest cities as well as with several European capital cities.

Sponsorship opportunities

Commercial sponsorship of CHEP 2024 is actively encouraged. For information about sponsorship opportunities please visit the conference webpage or contact the email below for sponsorship guidance.
