

Karpacz School Song

Text: David Blaschke, after “Gaudeamus igitur” by C.W. Kindleben (1781)

Melody: unknown

History:

Johannes Brahms received the honorary doctorate from the University of Wroclaw. On that occasion, he composed the “Akademic Festival Overture” where he quoted the song: “Gaudeamus Igitur” in the final section. This song became famous among student associations and is celebrated at student assemblies ...

Reminder: Gaudeamus Igitur

||: Gaudeamus igitur, iuvenes dum sumus :||

Post juncundam juventutem

Post molestam senectutem

||: Nos habebit hu-u-mus :||

||: Karpacz Physics Winter School - superdense and overcool :||

Quarkyonic is the matter

Now we understand it better

||: At the Karpacz Physics Winter School :||

||: One week in the Mountain ridge, experts from all world do teach :||

How colliding heavy ions

Does create a lot of pions

||: Good that Incubator is in reach :||

||: Lectures in the ARTUS’ hall, coffee breaks – we need them all :||

Problem solving, soft-skill training

When it's sunny or it's raining

||: We are captured in the ARTUS’ hall :||

||: Fireball and star that cools, we were told the iron rules :||

At the farewell we are singing

The conclusion we are bringing:

||: Let's come back to Karpacz Winter Schools :||
