

"Semiconductor Tracking Detectors at the International Linear Collider"
Jim Brau

Semiconductor tracking detectors are being developed for several applications in experiments at the ILC. These include for vertex detection, central tracking, and electromagnetic calorimetry. I will review recent progress on these efforts.