

“What you get” - Orbit and Tune Measurement and Feedback
T. Lefevre

Abstract

This contribution gives an overview of the current limitations of the beam position and tune measurements including their respective feedback systems. The hardware and software modifications performed in 2012 will be presented as well as the developments and improvements planned during LS1. The last part of the talk will discuss the expected performances of both systems with 6.5TeV beams after LS1.