

Contribution ID: 53

Type: not specified

A Brief Overview of Direct Searches for Dark Matter

Wednesday 16 April 2014 09:45 (45 minutes)

Direct detection experiments seek to detect dark matter through its scattering off nuclei in terrestrial detectors. In this talk, I will review the motivation for the direct detection of dark matter, discuss a variety of challenges faced by experimenters trying to directly detect dark matter and review recent results from leading direct detection experiments.

Primary author: COOLEY, Jodi (SMU)

Presenter: COOLEY, Jodi (SMU)

Session Classification: 4-Dark Matter