

Contribution ID: 72

Type: not specified

Software Quality: A Python Case Study

Wednesday, 16 April 2014 11:20 (1 hour)

Software quality is crucial in large projects to develop functional software products. This lecture gives an overview of this topic such as source code revision management, testing and development practices. Examples are based on Invenio, the underlying Pythonic open-source document management system of the CERN Document Server.

Primary author: GLAUNER, Patrick Oliver (CERN)

Presenter: GLAUNER, Patrick Oliver (CERN)