

Lessons learnt from aligning the CMS silicon tracker

Monday 30 June 2014 09:45 (30 minutes)

The alignment of the CMS silicon tracker reached a remarkable precision and it is only based on track-based algorithms. This talk will present the strategies used, methods to validate the results and the results itself. An emphasis will be put on lessons learned and their application to future silicon trackers.

Primary author: MEIER, Frank (University of Nebraska (US))

Presenter: MUSICH, Marco (INFN Torino (IT))