Do You Need to Know Your Users?

Wednesday, October 15, 2014 10:00 AM (30 minutes)

After several years investigation of trends in Identity Management (IdM), the eXtreme Scale Identity Management (XSIM) project has concluded there is little reason for resource providers to provide IdM functions for research collaborations or even for many groups within the institution. An improved user experience and decreased cost can be achieved with “a small amount of programming.”
