EGEE Business Training Programme

Monday, 22 September 2008 17:00 (20 minutes)

Linalis is an Open Source consulting, services and training company. The company focuses on open standards, web applications and network administration. Based in Switzerland and making IT happen since 2002.

As a newly appointed EGEE Business Associate, Linalis is now able to provide training to companies and individuals looking to leverage the power of the grid using gLite in their business. The courses will use the GILDA testbed and will introduce participants to the RESPECT tools (Recommended External Software for EGEE Communities). The training programme is currently focussed on end users. Consultancy can be provided for systems integration and ongoing support. This presentation will provide details on the current courses available as well as the plans to develop a full training and certification programme.

Presenter: ADAMS, Stephen (Linalis)

Session Classification: Business Track - Outsourcing Applications (Grids and Clouds)
