The results are well described by the PYTHIA 8 event generator. This hints to an important role of multiple interactions at the parton level for charm production in hadron-hadron collisions.