

Interaction of particles & photons

Robert Veenhof
CERN

Particles interact while traversing matter. These interactions blur the trajectory, but are also used to identify and track the particles.

This presentation gives an overview of the interaction mechanisms of particles that are of interest to high-energy physics experiments.