This year's edition of the Greek Teachers Programme, co-organized by CERN Education Group and the Hellenic Physical Society, will take place at CERN from 8 to 12 November 2015.

The programme targets physics high-school teachers from all over Greece. It aims to help teachers inspire the next generation of scientists and engineers by motivating their students to understand and appreciate how science works at the world's largest physics laboratory, whereby increasing their interest in pursuing studies in STEM fields in secondary and post-secondary education.

The programme will comprise lectures by Greek members of the CERN scientific community, with visits to experimental facilities, hands-on activities and dedicated sessions on effective and creative ways in which teachers can bring physics, particle physics and CERN closer to the school classroom. All lectures and support material will be archived and made publicly available at this space.

For more information on how you can participate in the programme, please go here.
