DÉCEMBRE
La pensée
de Lévinas

The important thing it talks about is not whether God molded man from soil and where He found it, but that man was made "in the image and likeness of God". Everything else falls into details. How can science subvert this? Beyond this, if science improves our understanding of this world and our image of Him, why should we challenge it? The most we can say, is that we understand some things better.

RELIGION

SCIENCE

Faith does not give you the answers;

it just stops you asking the questions.
