Software piracy & copyright violation is theft! Since 2013, several (!) software companies have accused CERN of violating their license conditions. Repeatedly, CERN user confirmed having deliberately used a pirated license although CERN had valid licenses in stock!

Protect the Organization. Software piracy & copyright violation is theft. These cases reflected badly on CERN’s reputation, risked out business relations, and have triggered financial repercussions ($100k+ for add’l licences). Next time, they might press for legal charges...

Check your software. Do not answer infringement letters. In doubt, contact Software.Licences@cern.ch