JSTOR Digital Archive

■ Provides full text journal articles (pdf, image, text)
■ Extensive holdings, with complete coverage:

Journals	1,012
Issues	244,933
Full Articles	2,407,077
All Articles	4,895,388

■ Full text and metadata search, browse
■ Broad discipline coverage:

JSTOR Digital Archive: Data for Research

- Metadata and full text made available for Foresite Project
- JISC funded experiment with ORE (6 months, 2008, Liverpool/JSTOR/HP)

- Metadata: 8 Gigabytes of Compressed XML
  - One entry per issue
  - Journal, Issue, Article metadata
  - Including parsed references (~25% coverage)

- Web site: http://dfr.jstor.org/

- SRU Interface: http://dfr.jstor.org/sru

- ORE Resource Maps coming soon

- Full dataset available under research license: email atr@jstor.org

UNIVERSITY OF
LIVERPOOL

ORE Model for JSTOR

🔴 Aim: Model scholarly communication holdings using ORE
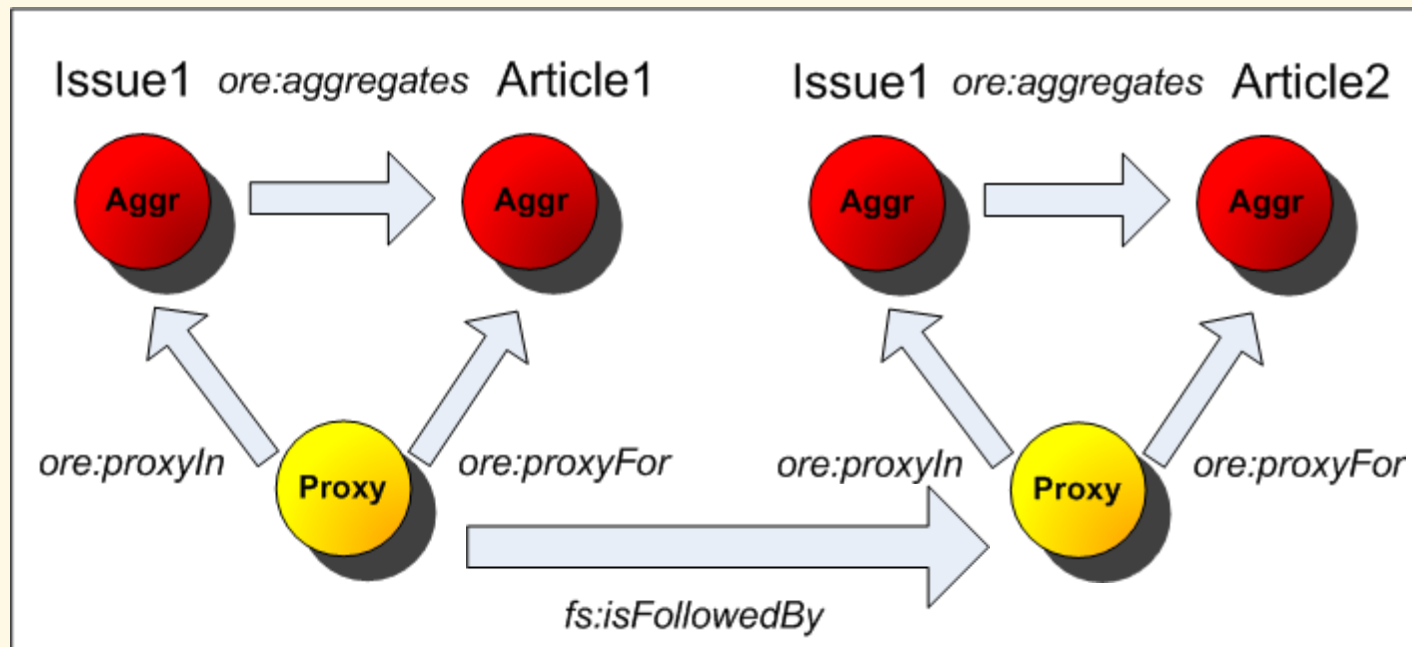

🔴 Nested Aggregations!
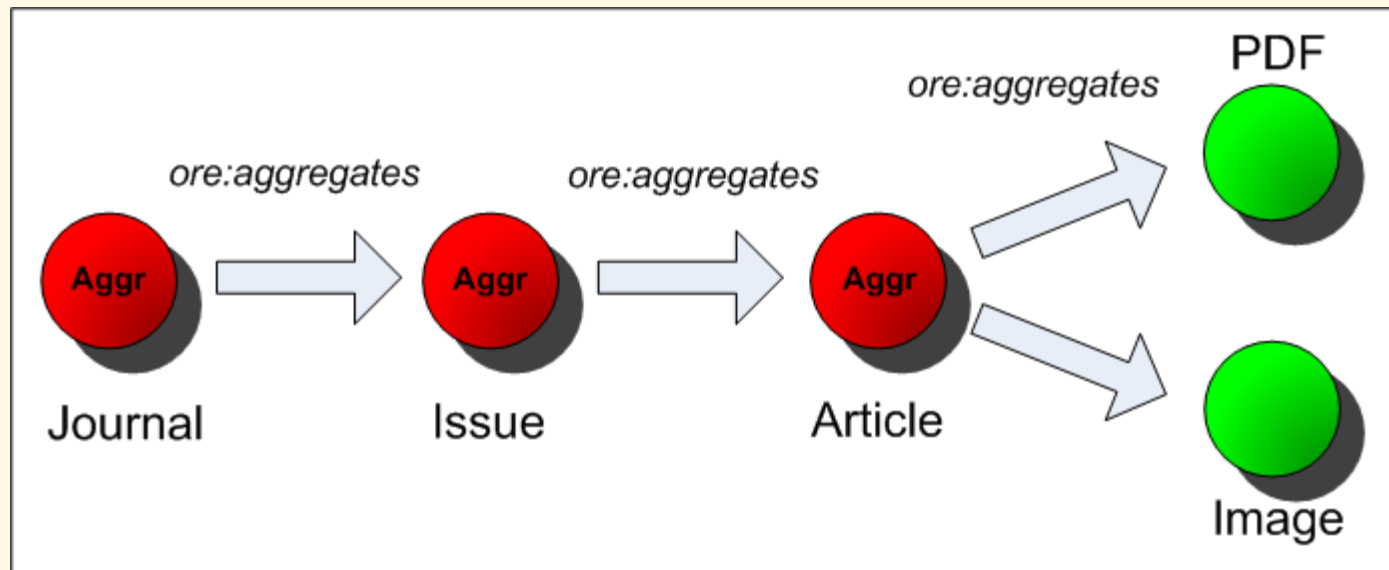

🔴 JSTOR can expose metadata in Resource Maps without releasing publisher's full text. Final PDF and Images behind JSTOR authentication.

ORE Model for JSTOR

🔴 Proxies Important!

🔴 Need to have explicit ordering in graph

ORE Model for JSTOR

■ Proxies Important for other reasons too:
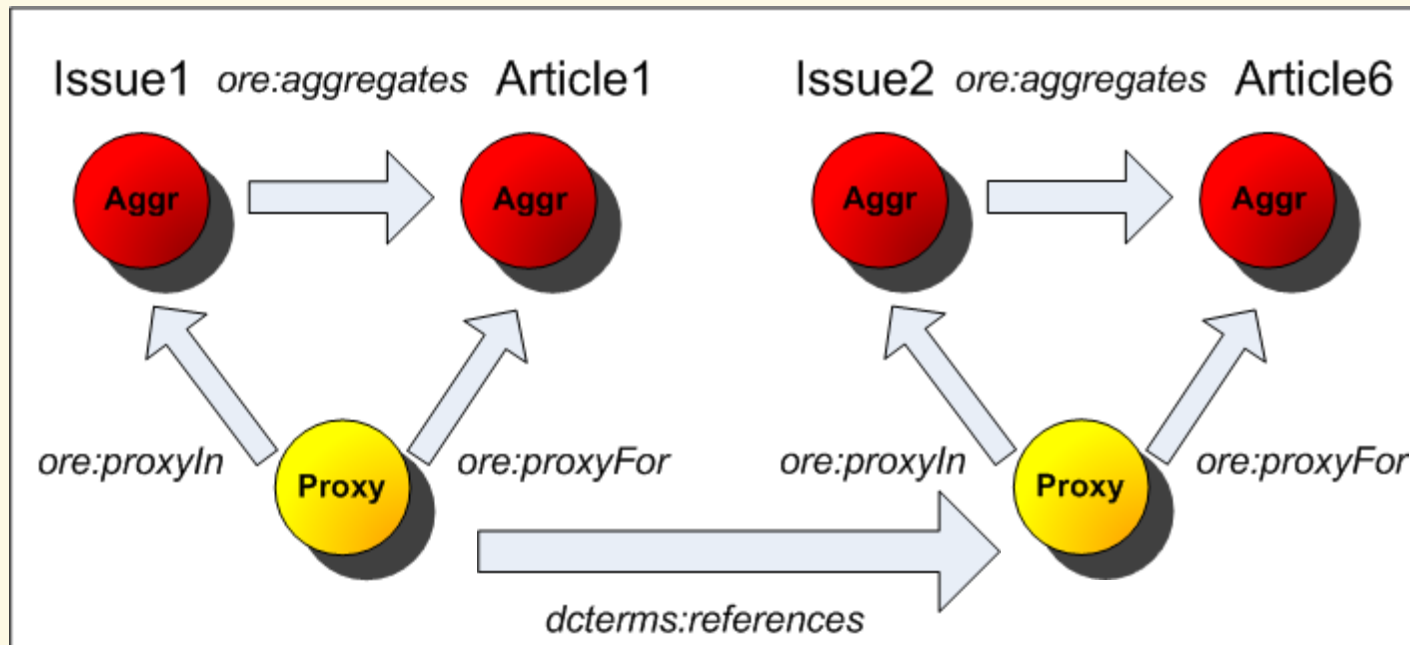

■ Need to model citations!

Resource Map Implementation

- Python Foresite Library
  - RDF Native format, and exports Atom, RDFa
  - Object Oriented with [black] magic get/set functions
  - http://foresite-toolkit.googlecode.com/

- Cheshire3 Information Framework
  - Maintains metadata, have to search for references/isReferencedBy
  - Have to search for all issues in journal and process 1000s of records
  - http://www.cheshire3.org/

- Apache/ModPython
  - Content Negotiation, Caching
  - Python VM and code initialized once per server lifetime

UNIVERSITY OF
LIVERPOOL

Visualization Implementation

- Want to visualize the data in conjunction with the main JSTOR web site

- Firefox + GreaseMonkey
  - Allows manipulation of other people's web sites…
    - Like http://www.jstor.org/
  - Allows cross-site AJAX, normally a security issue
    - From www.jstor.org to foresite.cheshire3.org for Resource Maps

- Dynamic SVG
  - Allows creation and manipulation of images in SVG via javascript
  - Can be linked to javascript mouse events (onclick, hover etc)
  - All via regular Javascript DOM manipulation …
  - … so easy to integrate with AJAX to fetch information

Demo

- GreaseMonkey: https://addons.mozilla.org/en-US/firefox/addon/748
- Explorer: http://foresite.cheshire3.org/explorer/foresite-explorer.user.js

Title: Gender, Control, and Interaction

Abstract: This research examines gender as status, and gender and control (which share the meaning of dominance) as identities by analyzing negative and positive behavior of married couples whose task is to resolve disagreements in their marriage. On the basis of recent extensions of expectation states theory dealing with emotion-based behavior, we hypothesize that husbands will be more likely than wives to use negative behavior in conversation. On the basis of identity theory and the meanings of emotion-based behavior, we also hypothesize that those with a more masculine and more dominant control identity will be moe likely to use negative behavior in interaction, and that those with a more feminine and less dominant control identity will be more likely to use positive behavior. We test these predictions on a representative sample of newly married couples, using videotaped conversations. Although the results are consistent with predictions from identity theory, they are inconsistent with predictions following from the extension of expectation states theory. specifically, wives rather than husbands employ more negative behavior in conversation. The results, paradoxically, are different for being female than for being feminine, and different for being male than for being masculine; nonetheless, we argue that understanding the implications of gender as both status and identity helps to resolve the paradox.

Title   Non-restrictive Adjective Interpretation and Association with Focus ;

Creator   Truswell, Robert ;

Date   2005 ;

Description   This paper investigates a relationship between the non-restrictive interpretation of attributive adjectives, known in French as an épithète de nature, and non-compositional theories of focus interpretation. It is shown that a non-restrictive ... inherent properties of the noun ... accommodation of a presupposition that ... generally have the property denoted by the adjective. ; survey results matches our initial brai[...] ise.

Here is a slightly modified and boiled down version of the concerns and issues the subgroup came up with for a potential institutional identifier standard, which resembles a set of minimum requirements:

1. Should be agnostic to type of institution, e.g., libraries, museums, personal
