NETIO

NetIO is a message-based network library with support for various network technologies (Ethernet, Infiniband, OmniPath) under a uniform high-level interface.

High-throughput and low-latency communication models are available for use in typical DAQ applications. Performance is competitive to state-of-the-art network libraries like ZeroMQ: