PYTHON

THIS IS PLAGIARISM. YOU CAN'T JUST "IMPORT ESSAY."

JAVA

I'M TWO PAGES IN AND I STILL HAVE NO IDEA WHAT YOU'RE SAYING.

C++

I ASKED FOR ONE COPY, NOT FOUR HUNDRED.

UNIX SHELL

I DON'T HAVE PERMISSION TO READ THIS.

ASSEMBLY

DID YOU REALLY HAVE TO REDEFINE EVERY WORD IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE?

C

THIS IS GREAT, BUT YOU FORGOT TO ADD A NULL TERMINATOR. NOW I'M JUST READING GARBAGE.

LATEX

YOUR PAPER MAKES NO GODDAMN SENSE, BUT IT'S THE MOST BEAUTIFUL THING I HAVE EVER LAID EYES ON.

HTML

THIS IS A FLOWER POT.

Are you a Python guru or would you like to learn?

The Developers@CERN Forum is an event by developers, for developers, aimed at promoting knowledge and experience sharing.

This edition will take place at the IT Amphitheatre, on the 30th and 31st of May afternoons. It will consist of a series of short presentations and workshops. The topic for this conference will be Python at CERN: language, frameworks and tools.

Have you got an idea for a presentation or workshop? Then, tell us about it (deadline on 9th of May).

Registration will open in early May. Please subscribe to developers-forum-announce@cern.ch mailing list for further information.

This event will be made by developers for developers. We are counting on your presence, but also on your contributions!
