“For anybody thinking of organising a meeting in Edinburgh, there is a huge amount of support. There is always somebody there to help you. It made a big difference.”

Professor Peter Andrews, University of Edinburgh,
5th International Hypothermia Symposium 2014

Why Edinburgh?

A city of firsts

Scotland's capital city is uniquely inspirational. Not only for its fabled loveliness, but also for its associations – past and present – with innovation, creativity, discovery and progress.

It was here chloroform was first used as an anaesthetic and penicillin was discovered. Dolly the sheep was cloned at the University's Roslin Institute. The first 'bionic' hand – a powered prosthetic with articulating fingers – was developed by a spin-out company from the city's Princess Margaret Rose Hospital.

Still leading the way

The Edinburgh Science Triangle is a collaboration of universities, research institutes, science parks and local authorities within 30 minutes of each other and close to the city centre.

Home to more than 3,000 researchers and 100 market-leading companies, it incorporates the £600m Edinburgh BioQuarter and the £42m Informatics Forum at the University of Edinburgh. It also houses the £60m Roslin Institute and the new Vet School at Easter Bush. It's a major part of Scotland's science and technology sector – a sector that continues to lead the world.

The right destination

A destination for your delegates.

A starting point for your event.

Edinburgh is one of the best locations in the world for a completely successful event. Here's why:

Reputation

Globally recognised as a world-leading authority in the sciences, technology and education, Edinburgh is home to Europe's largest and most successful informatics centre. Four of the world's finest universities. The £600m Edinburgh BioQuarter. And the fastest-selling video game of all time – Grand Theft Auto V, by Rockstar North.

Accommodation

There are more than 20,000 beds in and around the city, from five-star hotels to boutique B&Bs. We'll help you find and book the rooms best suited to your event. We'll think about location, space, services and facilities and find you the perfect match. Which means everyone's assured of a warm welcome — and a good night's sleep.

Connection

No matter where you're coming from, Edinburgh is easy to find. Its international airport – Scotland's busiest – serves 130 destinations worldwide. Rail links run all over the UK, from Perth to Penzance, Leeds to London and more. It's easily accessed from Scotland's motorway network. Transport in the city itself is simple – buses, trams and taxis are in plentiful supply.

Chair

Franz Muheim, University of Edinburgh, Head of the Particle Physics Experiment Group (chair)

Prof Muheim's research interest is in experimental particle physics. He is an expert on heavy flavour physics and he investigates the difference between matter and antimatter by measuring CP violation in beauty and charmed mesons. He is a member of the LHCb collaboration at the Large Hadron Collider at CERN. With LHCb data he is currently studying CP violating asymmetries and rare decays of Bs mesons to search for new physics in quantum loop transitions beyond the standard model of particle physics.

Prof Muheim is an expert on instrumentation. With his team at Edinburgh he played a leading role in the construction of the Ring Imaging Cherenkov Detectors (RICH) for the LHCb experiment, in particular in the R&D, assembly and commissioning of the RICH photon detectors. He is now leading the production and testing of new photon sensors for the upgrade of the LHCb experiment in the high luminosity phase of the LHC.

Lord Provost of the City of Edinburgh*

Dear Prof Muheim

I'm delighted to hear you're considering Edinburgh as the location for your next event. I'm confident you'll find we're a city with a great deal to offer.

Aside from our spectacular setting and internationally-acclaimed architecture both old and new, we're experienced at hosting international events on a grand scale. We have a wide range of conference and meetings venues, everything from purpose-built conference centres to iconic buildings, from academic venues to city centre hotels.

When the working day is over, we'll keep you and your delegates well entertained. Enjoy a banquet in one of our ancient homes or monuments – including the City Chambers and Edinburgh Castle. Have a guided tour of the Zoo, and meet our honoured guests, pandas Tian Tian and Yang Guang. Host a sparkling evening reception at one of the beautiful National Galleries. Or play a round of golf on one of the 28 courses within the city's boundaries.

Edinburgh is a city well used to extending a warm welcome. We have more than six million visitors a year. We host the world's largest arts festival every Summer. In August, performers from all over the world take part in the Royal Edinburgh Military Tattoo, which itself brings in almost a quarter of a million visitors in addition to being broadcast to an international audience of a million. And of course, our Hogmanay celebration welcomes tens of thousands of visitors from all over the world every 31st December.

Edinburgh is Scotland's great capital city attracting the attention of the world and is the preferred showcase for any major event or gathering. The city is compact and easy to get around and yet large enough to encompass all your needs and interests. The atmosphere in and around the city is a unique blend of excitement and enjoyment which has to be experienced to be appreciated.

With more than 12,000 bedrooms in the city centre, and thousands more within the city boundaries, Edinburgh is ready to offer you its famous hospitality. I very much look forward to welcoming you, and helping to make your event a resounding success.

Yours sincerely,

Donald Wilson

Conference venues

Finding the right venue for your event

Getting the venue right is the key to a great event. As well as purpose-built, state-of-the-art conference venues with all possible mod cons, Edinburgh offers opportunities for an event that'll really stand out. The Zoo, the Castle, Dynamic Earth and the National Galleries – along with dozens of other alternative venues, they'll provide a conference setting no-one will ever forget.

Wherever you hold your event, you can expect the very highest levels of service, support and expertise. The following pages contain outline information about dozens of our venues, from the grandeur of Edinburgh Castle to the uniquely atmospheric Edinburgh Caves.

If there's anything else you'd like to know about conferencing facilities, or about how we can support you, please don't hesitate to contact us on +44 (0) 131 473 3666.

After hours

Edinburgh – keeping you entertained

When a walk round the city takes you from the medieval to the modern day, Edinburgh doesn't seem to need additional attractions. Nevertheless, it has plenty. Here are just a few:

Food and drink

With more restaurants per head of population than any other UK city, and more Michelin-starred restaurants than any UK city outside London, Edinburgh knows how to whet the visitor's appetite.

Out and about

There's no better way to learn about Edinburgh's ancient past than one of the walking tours that operate year-round. The city's ghosts will guide you – private tours are available on request.

Must-sees:

- Edinburgh Castle is visible from almost every main street in the city centre. Explore it at any time, or hire it out for an unforgettable evening event.
- The Zoo is only a short bus ride from the city centre. Private guided tours or daytime and evening events are available.
- Scotland's Parliament building, at the bottom of the Royal Mile, is open to visitors all year round, except when Parliament is in recess. Guided tours are free of charge.
- The Royal Yacht Britannia is one of the UK's top tourist attractions. Berthed at Leith Docks, it's available for corporate events, evening receptions and guided group tours.

There's so much to see and do that the only problem might be fitting it all in. Find out more – and plan your visit – at thisisedinburgh.com.

"Convention Edinburgh... allowed the organizing committee to focus on the science."

Edinburgh and Scotland

Take a tour

Before your conference starts, or after it ends, your delegates might like to spend some time getting to know Scotland. Edinburgh is a great place to start.

Both the Old and New Towns are UNESCO World Heritage Sites, with their ancient wynds and closes, cobbled streets, glorious cathedrals and elegant Georgian terraces. There are various bus and walking tours across the city that highlight the main attractions – and uncover some of its hidden secrets.

North, South, East and West

North of Edinburgh you'll find Perth and Inverness, both gateways to Scotland's unique Highland culture. South there's the rolling hills and sweeping glens of the Scottish Borders. In the East are the glorious beaches of Gullane, North Berwick and Belhaven. And to the West is Glasgow, Scotland's biggest city, well worth a visit in itself.

Head for the Highlands

Take a train from either of Edinburgh's main stations and you'll soon find yourself in a very different landscape. Rugged mountains, ruined castles, mysterious lochs and deep pine forests – it's another world entirely. Some tour operators run special excursions taking in the main attractions – it's worth a look at visitscotland.com before you go.

Try a wee dram

Whisky enthusiasts will enjoy a unique taste of Scotland on one of the many distillery tours. They'll find for themselves the difference between Speyside and Highland malts, the rich, smoky peatiness of Islay whiskies and the zesty, floral 'Lowland Ladies'. Specialist tours operate all over Scotland, and are a must for true aficionados.

Play a round

Scotland is the home of golf, so there's nowhere better to practice your putting when you have the chance. With 14 outstanding courses in Edinburgh alone, and hundreds more across the country, there's no shortage of opportunity. Specialist tour operators offer packages that'll get you right into the swing of things.

Scotland has a lot to offer. It's a small country, but it packs a lot in. And taking an easy drive, or booking one of the many tours available, is a great way to sample the best of it.

What our clients say...

On behalf of the ILA and the many delegates at 14ELBC we would like to extend a very large thank you to you and your team for the catering you provided during our 14th European Lead Battery Conference last week. The food was delicious and the service impeccable. We enjoyed working with you all and thank you for all your efforts.

M McDermott, Executive Assistant, International Lead Association

I just wanted to say a great big THANK YOU for all your hard work in supporting DDL26. You are all so brilliant at looking after us before, during and after the Event. It makes running the DDL Conference so much easier as we know you are always there to help us and keep everything on track and this is always very much appreciated.

Sheila Coates, DDL Conference

We understand that event organisers are increasingly concerned with environmental issues associated with the events industry. This is why we are proud to have created Plan-it green™; our sustainable events programme comprising of committed stakeholders throughout the EICC. As part of this programme, we have implemented a number of policies & procedures involving all aspects of EICC's business partners and supply chains. These are regularly reviewed and externally audited on an annual basis as required by the international standard ISO 14001: 2015.

In addition, we have adopted the principles of the 'Green Meeting Industry Council' (GMIC) in offering advice on how our clients can 'Green' their event, before, during and post event. The below are some examples of the areas covered in our program.

Suppliers / Procurement – Preference will be given to those products and services that have minimal or beneficial impact to the environment. Any purchased products and services hired in from suppliers and service contractors to the EICC shall provide 100% internal and external customer satisfaction or alternative suppliers shall be sought.

Energy Saving – The EICC endeavours to save energy wherever possible. We have implemented a range of effective measures to achieve this including energy efficient lighting, heating and cooling systems, as well as water-saving devices.

Waste Management – The EICC encourages its delegates to reduce waste production by following our three R's principles (Reduce, Re-use, Re-cycle). To assist in this we have a variety of recycling facilities available for glass & bottles, paper & cardboard, plastic cups, aluminium cans, wood and exhibition material.

Transport – We encourage both staff and event organizers to use public transport to and from the event. We also have good relationships with public transport providers such as Edinburgh Trams and Lothian Buses.

Carbon Offset Program – We encourage event organisers to participate actively in reducing the negative impact of their event and offset the remaining carbon emissions by planting trees. To this end, we are working in partnership with Forest Carbon Ltd and the Borders Forest Trust to plant new woodlands which will not only capture atmospheric carbon dioxide as the trees grow, but will also benefit wildlife and biodiversity, reduce flooding and create recreational space.

Paper & Green Office Program - This involves recycling and minimization of paper and cardboard waste. We also recycle toner / photocopier cartridges, bottles and tin cans.

International Standard 14001: 2015 - EICC was one of the first conference venues in the world to gain the globally recognized ISO14001 environmental standard ISO 14001. We are regularly audited to maintain this accreditation and recently became one of the first organizations in Europe to gain the recently revised Quality and Environmental Standards – ISO 14001:2015.

In recognition of our commitment to the environment, we have also won a series of awards including the 'Green Tourism Gold Award' which positions EICC within the top 3% of Green Tourism businesses in the UK.

As a result of our sustainable practices, the EICC is on course to achieving its 20% CO2 reduction per m2 by year 2020 in line with the Scottish Government's overall target whilst supporting the Global Carbon Reduction Agreement.
