

Dominic Jean-Luc Mills-Howell

Dominic Mills-Howell is a final year M. Phil student at the University of the West Indies in Kingston, Jamaica. His research predominantly focuses on aspects of supersymmetric quantum mechanics, mostly notably the shape-invariance problem. At CERN, he is currently working on developing a prototype related to the control and debugging of future CMS upgrade projects.