Content aggregation and network architectures

- Data can live in the space of the user instead of forcing the user to come to the space of the provider (Participatory Networks)
- OpenURL, COinS (specification for publishing OpenURL references in HTML , <http://ocoins.info/>), (e.g.LibX - Virginia Tech, <http://www.libx.org/>)
- RSS/Atom feeds
- unAPI (API to copy discrete content from any kind of web application, <http://unapi.info/> )
- Mashups
- Social tagging
- ID resolvers, registries
- Tailoring

Content aggregation and network architectures

- Quædam cuiusdam: the first COinS-PMH-compliant blog in the world
- <http://www.wallandbinkley.com/quaedam/?p=48>
- This blog now contains COinS-PMH links; these links allow a suitable client to retrieve simple Dublin Core records for every posting using the OAI-PMH protocol.

Content aggregation and network architectures

More issues:

- Full text: I'm not interested in metadata-only stuff
- Rights: ok, I've retrieved it, now how can I use it?
- I've found several links to the stuff I need, how do I know which is the latest version?
- I was looking for John Smith's works, but I found 1'360'000 occurrences ☹️
