UX concepts, how they affected our development flow.

Tuesday, 14 February 2017 16:35 (15 minutes)

The Locations application has been the first in our Section (FAP-AIS-GI) in which some proper UI/UX concepts have been taken in account during the early phases of the development. This led to a change of the development flow by adding the UX designer to the core of the development phase.

The talk aims at showing the development of Locations before and after this moment, and how the way of thinking at the application changed for taking in account the improvements in the user experience of the application.
