

Social media and talking to journalists

Friday, November 10, 2017 2:00 PM (1h 15m)

Clara Nellist

Social media has become a key source of information for many people. Scientists must adopt these online communication methods to ensure their research is discussed and shared in way that is open to all. We will look at various social media platforms and also how to deal with the media.