Fly to Moscow comfortable and directly

Moscow has direct flight connections with all major cities of the world (including Tokyo, Los Angeles and all European capitals).

Geneva-Moscow-Geneva is about 450 euros, 3.5 hours, 3 direct flights per day (Aeroflot - Russian International Airlines and Swiss Airlines)

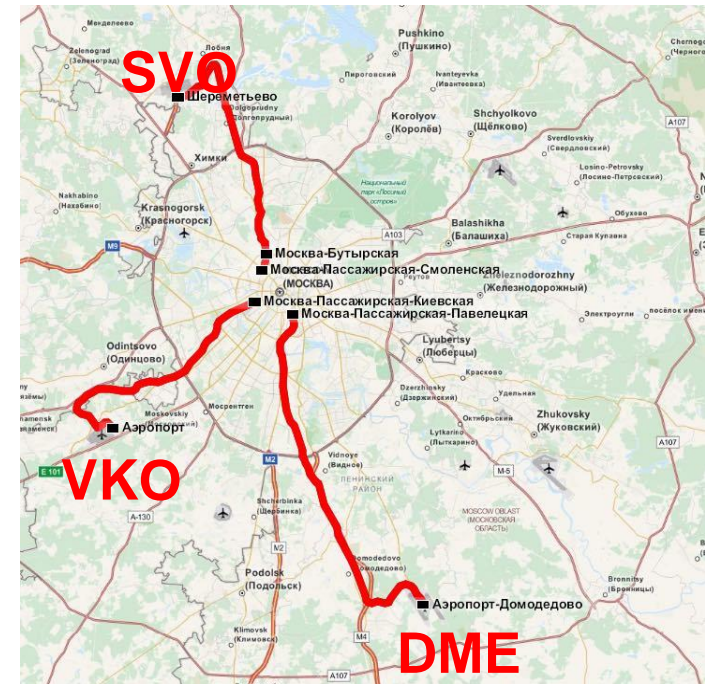

How to get from airports to Moscow

There are 3 international airports in Moscow: Sheremetyevo (SVO), Domodedovo (DME), Vnukovo (VKO).

All are connected to the Moscow metro system by express trains (Aeroexpress): about 40 minutes, 9 euro. Of course, taxi or car rent are also possible (but not advised to novices due to heavy Moscow traffic).

Moscow metro is one of the largest in the world (> 3 bln passengers per year) but easy to navigate, most of the information is doubled in English. Operation hours: 05:45am - 1:00am, entrance payment (about 1 euro) valid for all the city (no pay zones).

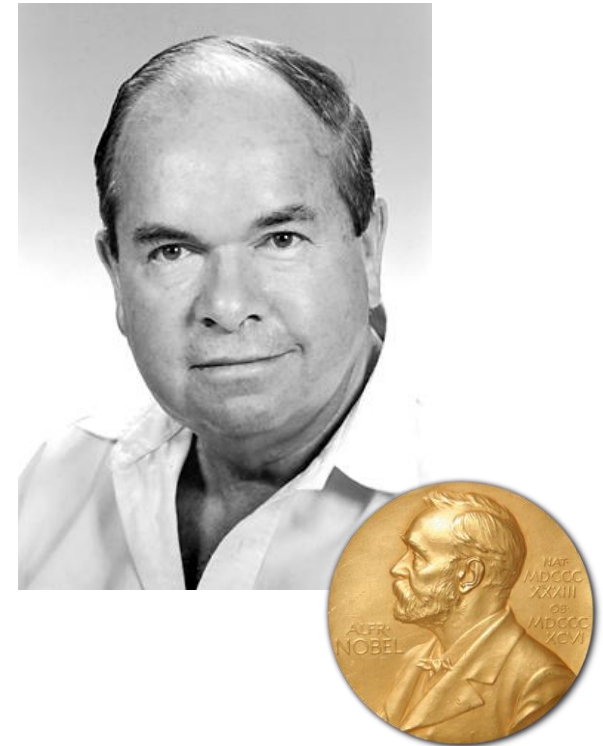

National University of Science and Technology MISiS

NUST MISiS is one of the most dynamically developing scientific and educational centers of the country. NUST MISiS is also a successful research center with a rich history of achievements in the field of material science, modeling and development of new materials.

SHiP collaboration member

Prof. Alexei Abrikosov who is 2003 Nobel Prize in Physics headed the Department of Theoretical Physics of the University for many years.

Campus location

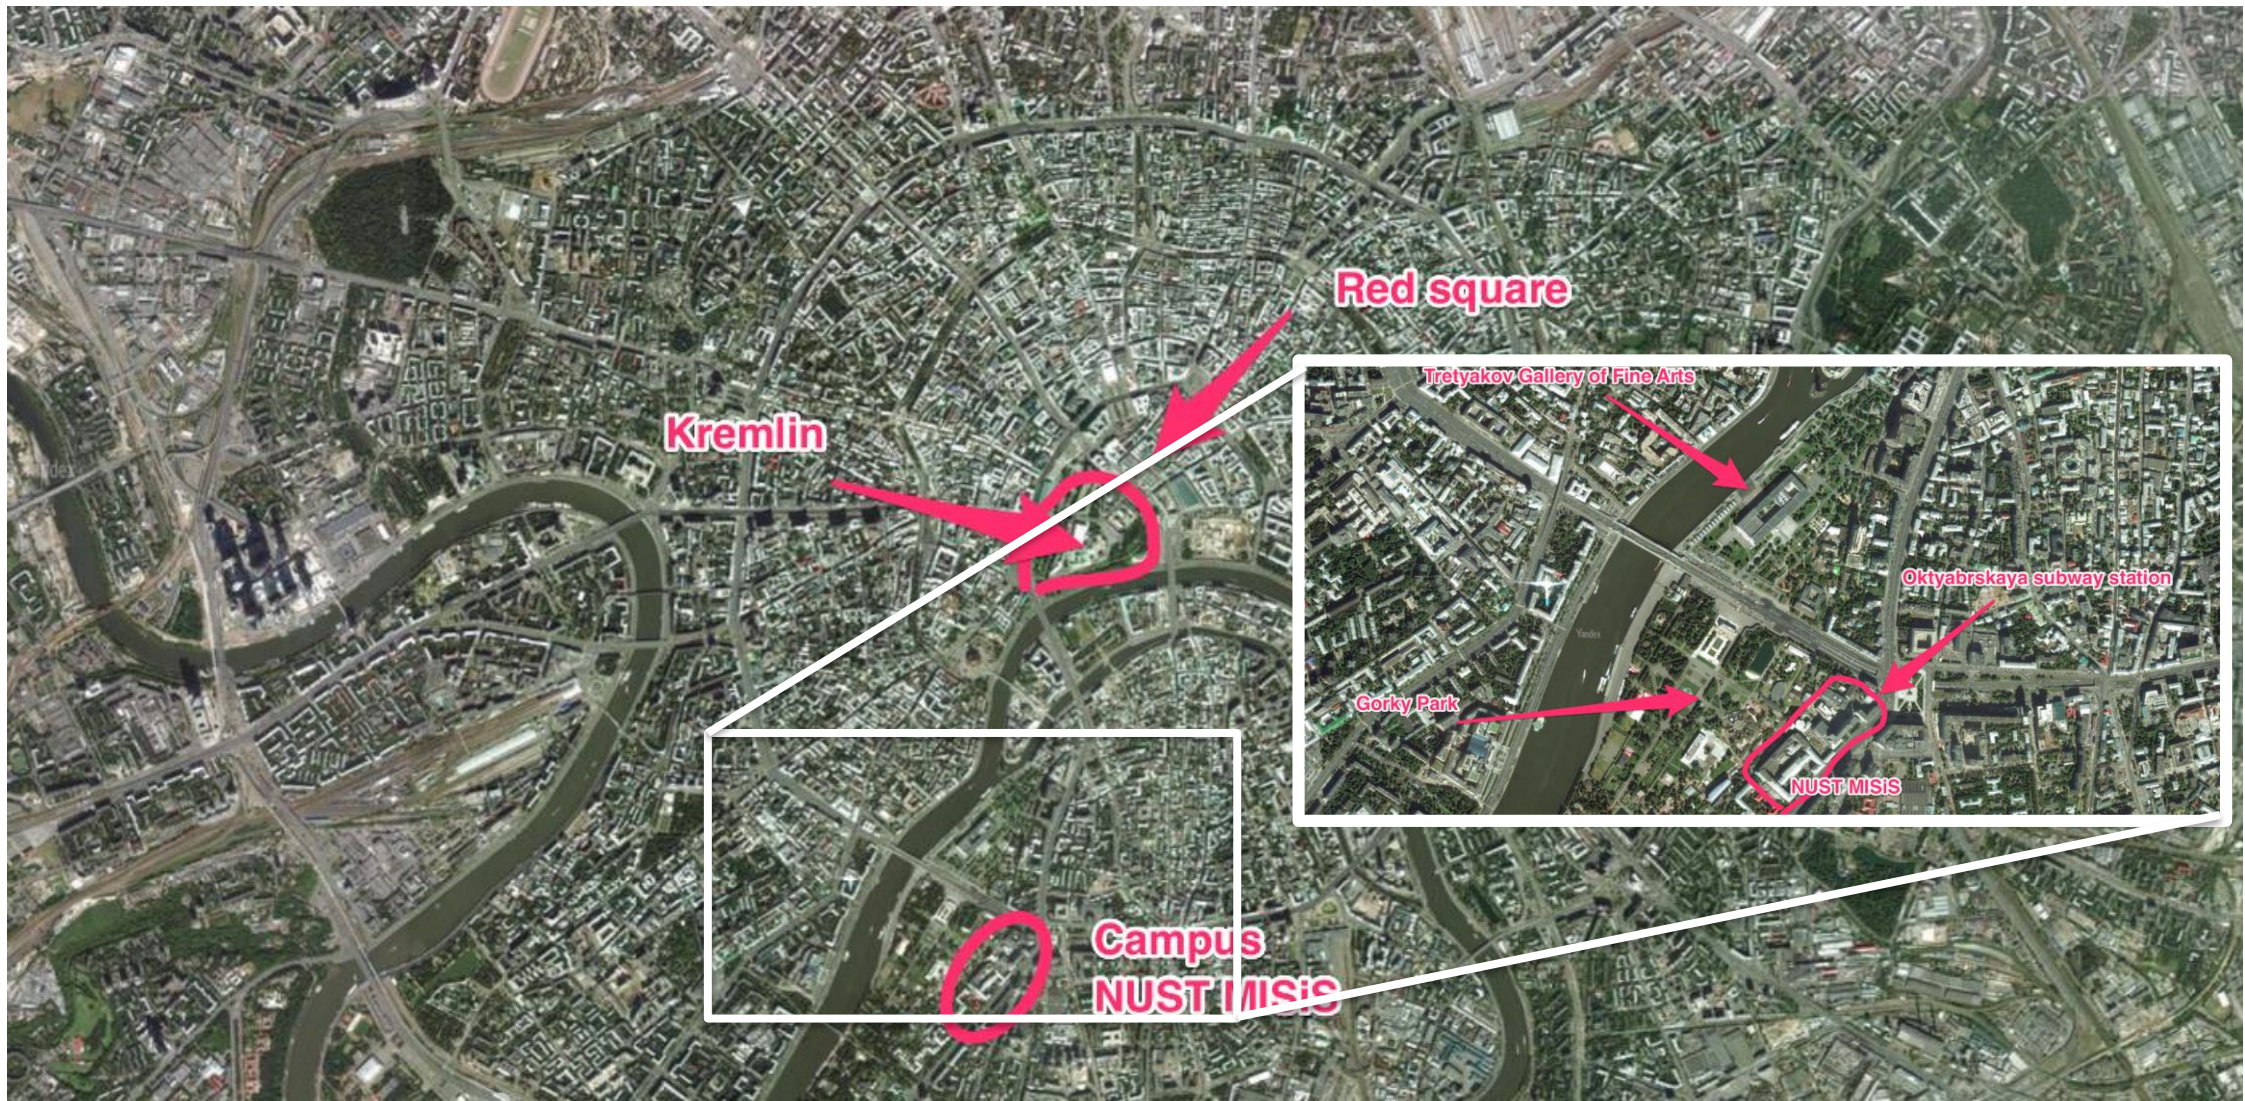

Campus NUST MISiS is conveniently located in the center of Moscow

The weather in Moscow is usually comfortable in the first half of June, the typical day temperature range is 18-25 degrees Celsius (but take your umbrellas - there can be rains and thunderstorms!)
