

CERN Hackathon

Semisupervised anomaly detection for CMS

- try different data preprocessing algorithms
- optimize existing model to achieve better results
- use the outcome of this model and design and train a different model to map anomalous lumisections to specific detector failures
- use some appropriate visualization techniques for high-dimensional data