

About me?

I'm Pierre Wulles from France. I'm currently studying at University of Grenoble. I have a bachelor in physics and mathematics. At CERN I was benchmarking an app named XPRA to know if it could be used in a production context. I was working with the BE-ICS group. After CERN, I will complete my master in physics and maybe after do a phd. What I liked the most at CERN was the scientific atmosphere and the numerous nationality I met here.
