

My name is Muhammad Usman and I am from Pakistan. I study at the Sabanci University in Istanbul, where I am currently doing master's degree in physics. At CERN I have been working with the Gaseous Detector Development group in EP-DT-DD department. After I leave I will finish my master's and continue with a PhD. The experience of being a summer student is truly unique because everyday you learn new things and you are in company of the best people in their respective fields.
