

MEDICIS-Promed

Our Marie-Curie training network has trained 15 young researchers on projects along the chain of non conventional isotope production, accelerators and research in medicine.

For the past four years, impressive scientific and technical results have been obtained, throughout a network of universities, high-tech companies and hospitals.

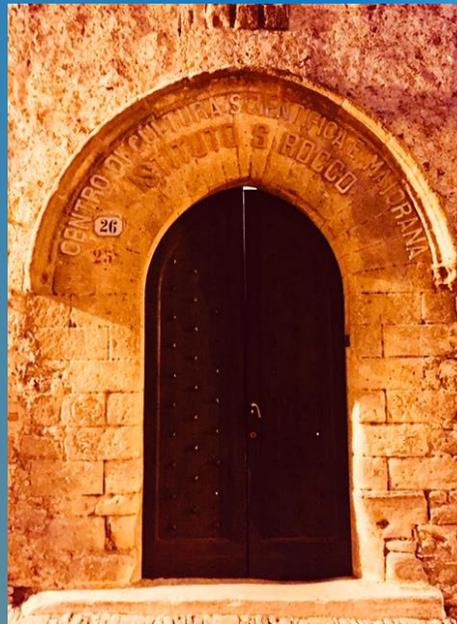

With some results already reported along the years at international conferences, and some others reported for the first time here, the final MEDICIS-Promed conference is expected to bring together a wide community to report on ground-breaking research activities.

Final Conference

The Final Conference on MEDICIS-Promed and related science topics will be held at

“The Ettore Majorana Foundation and Centre for Scientific Culture”

Erice (Italy) 30th April - 4th May 2019

Scientific Topics

- Radioisotope beams in hadron therapy
- Accelerator techniques for medical isotope production
- Pre-clinical research and development of new radiopharmaceuticals
- Devices and engineering for isotopes handling
- Production method of novel radioisotope for theranostics
