

13th International Conference on Identification of Dark Matter

July 20-24, 2020
Vienna, Austria

Welcome to the first bulletin of IDM2020,

the 13th conference on the identification of dark matter (IDM2020) is organized by the Institute of high energy physics (HEPHY) in the beautiful city Vienna. The conference will take place from 20-24th of July 2020 at the Technical University Vienna which is located in the very centre of city in close walking distance to Vienna's main attractions like Karlsplatz, Stephansdom, Naschmarkt etc.

The aim of IDM is to draw a complete picture on the current knowledge of dark matter from cosmologic scale down to particle physics, from accelerator searches to recent results in indirect and direct detection and to give a glance on future prospects and technological advancements on the endeavor to identify dark matter.

We warmly invite you to come and present talks or posters and to join in lively discussion covering all aspects of the study of dark matter and of the hunt to identify its nature. We particularly want to encourage active participation of young researchers in the field and we plan to publish peer-reviewed proceedings. We also aim to give you a real experience of the city and its surrounding by a Danube river cruise and local, traditional cuisine at Heuriger Fuhrgassl-Huber.

The website is now open for registration at idm2020.hephy.at. Any inquiries concerning IDM are very welcome. These can be directed to idm2020@hephy.at or members of the local organizing committee. In case of inquiries regarding registration, hotels and on letters for visa please write to idm2020@vb-mice.at.
