
Line 1:

Changchun Taoist temple

Changchun Taoist temple, one of the most famous Taoist temples in China, located in wuhan, hubei province, is the only existing Taoist temple in this area. It was listed as a national key Taoist temple by the state council in 1983. The Taoist temple is located in the south of shuangfeng mountain in wuhan city. It is said that laozi, the ancestor of Taoism, once stayed here. Taoist architecture appeared here as early as the 3rd century BC. During the yuan dynasty, qiu chuji, a famous representative of quanzhen school, came here to practice and preach, which further expanded its scale. Because qiu chuji was called changchun real person, the Taoist temple was called changchun view. Since its establishment, the influence of changchun outlook has been constantly expanding, and it was further expanded in the Ming and qing dynasties to form its current scale. It sits in the south, built according to the mountain, the main building is the gate, lingguan dian, taiqing dian, three emperor dian, etc., compact layout, large scale. Next to the building of qizhen temple, there is a hall of merit and virtue, with an astronomical panorama inlaid on the wall. It was completed by the famous Taoist priest Lilian in the 1930s, which has a high reference value for the study of ancient astronomy. Now, changchun view is not only the local center of Taoist activities, but also a scenic tourist resort, every year many visitors and believers come to worship.

Guiyuan Buddhist Temple

Guiyuan Buddhist Temple is located at the west end of Cuiwei Street in Hanyang, Hubei Province, China. Built in 1658 AD (Qing Shunzhi 15 years), it gets its name from the Buddhist scriptures "convenient to Yuan, six not two, there are many" of the semantic, known as the "blessing of the world's most ling temple", the national 4A level scenic spots, national key Buddhist temple, the Buddhist Association of Hubei Province and Wuhan City, the seat of the Buddhist Association, is also a key cultural relics protection unit in Hubei Province and famous tourist attraction. Together with Baotong Zen Temple, Gude Temple and Lianxi Temple, it is called the "four jungles" of Wuhan Buddhism.

