

I am Albert Iho from Finland, I am trying to finish my Bachelors degree on Computer Sciences at Tampere University.

So far I have been working with kubernetes, implementing and testing CockroachDB. I am doing my internship at CERN within the IT-Department, under the Database-group in the Infrastructure and Automation section.

After the summer I will return to school to finish my Bachelors degree and then apply for technical studency at CERN, hopefully working with the same project that I've been working on so far.

The best thing so far has been working for results and not for hours (meaning that I can come in a bit later than 0800am).