Normal Collaboration review should take (Annex 4 of MoC):

- 2 weeks for journal paper
- 2 weeks for public notes
- 1 week for conference proceedings

Allow total of ~one week for initial review, implementation of changes and final checks before circulation

Before submitting the draft to Pub Com: inform your co-authors and get their approval

Reply to CDS comments to help us check the review

Drafts and where they are in the reviewing process are summarised on Twiki:

Formatting the paper

Reference versions of CLICdp templates maintained in gitlab:

<https://gitlab.cern.ch/CLICdp/Publications/Templates/Style/tree/master/CLICdpTemplate>

Check for updates before starting a new paper.

Considering mirroring as templates in Overleaf (trivial, e.g. as demo <https://v2.overleaf.com/read/sfbtsbsmpyvjj>)

Plots Use CLICdp style, where possible:

<https://gitlab.cern.ch/CLICdp/Publications/Templates/Style/tree/master/CLICdpStyle> with “CLICdp” (or “CLICdp preliminary”) label in the plots.

- Aharon Levy (Tel Aviv)
- Ulrike Schnoor (CERN)
- Simon Spannagel (CERN)
- Nigel Watson (Birmingham) chairperson

Special thanks to Aharon, Ulrike and Simon for their huge efforts, and for those submitting documents for their patience as we are not quite keeping up with our nominal schedules of late. However, it is better to be slightly slower than compromise quality of outputs.

Thanks to colleagues for their understanding with delays, at certain times of year we are not keeping up with our expected reviewing schedules).

Huge thanks to official paper reviewers and all approached for comments at short notice.

Role of PubCom

Please let us know, if you face any problems with:

- using CLICdp templates, root style, Overleaf, ...
- submitting to arXiv,
- getting support/response from conference organizers,
- copyright issues.

We are here to help

- clicdp-pubcom@cern.ch
- <https://mattermost.web.cern.ch/clicdp-pubcom/channels/pubcom>

Open access license

- the CDS submissions were not copyright protected as “open access” publications
- with help of CDS support, new solution has been implemented: all public CDS submissions from CLICdp will be covered by CC-BY-4.0 license by default
- the cover page templates have been modified to include the following statement:
©2020 CERN for the benefit of the CLICdp Collaboration.
- the majority of the HEP journals publish under open access.
Still, it is the responsibility of the author to make sure that this is the case and to inform the publications committee in case of the submission to a non open access journal.
